

New Website – Columbia TBD Research Center

For patients and families, physicians and researchers in need of information about chronic Lyme disease.

A powerful and credible source of Lyme-related materials, it represents the only academic research center in the country to focus multidisciplinary research on chronic Lyme. Synonymous with the Center's mission, the website offers up-to-date resources, new research results from Columbia University and elsewhere, frequently asked questions, an "ask the doctor" section (most popular to date), and commentary on important events in the Lyme world. Feedback on the site is welcome.

Check out new website here

—