

CALDA Presents Patients' Values Survey

LymeDisease.org, formerly CALDA, is requesting Lyme patients to fill out and submit a survey. According to LymeDisease.org, "The IDSA is revising its Lyme guidelines and patient viewpoints matter." LymeDisease.org is conducting a survey to determine what patients think is important about treatment options, choices, risks and benefits. According to LymeDisease.org, "the survey should only take 5-8 minutes." A previous survey by CALDA drew over 4,000 responses and ended up being the largest survey of Lyme patients ever conducted in the United States.

For more information, please visit LYME POLICY WONK. This blog is written by Lorraine Johnson, JD, MBA, who is the Chief Executive Officer of LymeDisease.org (formerly CALDA), an LDA affiliate. Contact her at lbjohnson@lymedisease.org